

ALIGN[®]

Planning • Consulting • Training
Business Services

At Align, we believe that healthy economies involve a strong business community, the willingness and ability to attract new and diverse businesses, and a well-built and well-supported human services network – the local nonprofit organizations and government entities that support all citizens. This human services network demonstrates to prospective businesses that the community is well-rounded – a good place to live and work.

To help the social services network thrive, we created the Nonprofit Leadership Institute, consisting of seven classes that teach participants all that it takes to effectively manage a flourishing social services operation. The curriculum was designed by adult curriculum development experts and is taught by Align professionals that have extensive knowledge and experience in each of the seven target areas.

In addition to the two currently-advertised formats – one or two class(es) per month for six months (presented in Casper) and a three-day retreat – classes are available as requested and contracted for your community.

To learn more about this service or Align's other organizational development and training service, visit www.TheAlignTeam.org.

Brittany Ashby

Brittany is a life-long learner with a passion for helping other people and other organizations acquire the skills, knowledge and abilities to be successful. Brittany in conjunction with the other Align principals started Align to help organizations of all types learn and grow in a variety of areas. Brittany uses her background and knowledge of organizational development in the areas of leadership development, facilitation, management and communications structures, performance management, strategic planning and adult education to provide customized services to clients throughout the Rocky Mountain West.

She holds a certificate in Human Performance Improvement from the American Society of Training and Development, and a Master's Degree in Adult Education and Learning Technologies from the University of Wyoming. Her philosophy on adult learning and consulting focuses on identifying the needs of the client and then facilitating the learning rather than providing out-of-the box solutions that may or may not be right for that particular situation.

Prior to joining Align, Brittany was a development officer for the University of Northern Colorado and spent two years with Colorado's El Pomar Foundation. At El Pomar, she helped manage and run operational outreach programs that focused on management, philanthropy and leadership development. She acquired extensive organizational development skills through training and work in non-profit management and facilitation.

Volunteering has never been an option in Brittany's life and thus she has worked with a variety of nonprofits boards and organizations as a board member, volunteer, staff member and consultant. In her free time, Brittany serves a variety of community organizations including the Greater Cheyenne Chamber of Commerce, the Laramie County Library Board, and the United Way of Laramie County. Brittany believes that healthy and educated organizations are the building blocks of a strong community.

Brittany lives in Cheyenne with her husband Matt, Planning Services Director for the City of Cheyenne, and her two beautiful daughters.